PROJECT SPECIFICATIONS/INFORMATION

Project Description: The new History Colorado Center in downtown Denver was constructed in 2011 to be the new home for Colorado's History Museum. This LEED project featured high end finishes inside and out. The exterior concrete needed to capture the character of a municipal museum. Tryba selected Navajo White and Capitol Hill Sandstone Texture for the site paving finish in order to compliment the primary finish face of the building: Colorado Granite and Limestone. The correlation of the two finishes created a refined curb appeal for this new Denver landmark. The consistent Sandstone finish performed by Colorado Hardscapes helped tie the entire design of the site and building together in a uniform manner.
