ANTICO PROCESS

Imagine

Natural. Variegated. Unique.

The Bomanite Antico Process is a highly unique and specialized decorative concrete finishing option exclusive to Bomanite Exposed Aggregate Systems Licensed concrete craftsmen. Utilized to enhance or modify select Bomanite Systems finishes, the Antico Process adds voids and fissures – with varying size, shape and depth – to create uniquely different concrete surfaces resembling old worn travertine or manufactured cast stone. Each pour, each installation, each project is unique to itself with natural character created by the craftsman's rate of broadcast and finishing techniques.

ANTICO PROCESS

REALIZE The Possibilities.

Creative Design and Color Options

The Antico process can be used to enhance borders or feature areas – or used wholesale to create an overall variegated concrete surface. The concentration of voids can range from sporadic to many with several differing shapes intermixed to create additional interest. Incorporating decorative saw-cuts create the illusion of carefully placed blocks of natural or cast stone. Combined with Bomanite's signature Bomacron imprinted concrete patterns and textures, the Antico Process can enhance stamped concrete to create individualized and additional character for each stone.

Once exposed and cured, Bomanite Exposed Aggregate Systems treated with the Antico Process may be secondarily colored with Bomanite Chemical Stain or Con-Color. The voids and fissures will collect the color, enhancing the Antico effect and character of the concrete. Each saw-cut block can be colored with varying dilutions of the same color or unique colors to further the look of individual cut and laid blocks. The possibilities of color and texture combined with the Antico Process are virtually endless.

Insist on only the best. Insist on Bomanite Exposed Aggregate Systems.
